CAF-316® the press fastener to rely on: introducing smart screw-studs for a complete range

Press release

It is often said by experienced cover makers and fabricators: the weakest link of a cover, tent or any other textile product are the fasteners. More than the textile and the craftsmanship itself, the quality and lifetime of their products depend on the thread, zippers and fasteners.

To make it easier on any fabricator to choose quality to secure his or her reputation, smart screw-studs are introduced available in 10 mm (3/8") or 16 mm (5/8"). The oversized screw-stud fills up enlarged holes of old and removed screw-studs. The self-drilling version with the optimized thread and drill-tip causes a significant smaller chance of chipping the gel-coat. With special thread optimized for application on composites, wood and aluminium. Resulting up to 50% better hold as opposed to thread used on standard screw-studs.

Especially in applications that don't allow compromise, like marine, industrial and outdoor, it is the end-user of these products that suffer from insufficiencies. As true reliability drills down to every detail, CAF-316 uses spring technology that avoids galvanic corrosion or electrolysis, is full sea water resistant, while ensures a similar and stable spring performance as one is used to and should expect.

At last SUREFAS brings modern technology to bear on a long-standing problem: making press fasteners truly corrosion free. From now on you can place your trust in the real durability of CAF-316, made to last. This unique and great improvement is recognized by announcing CAF-316 to be the category WINNER of the IFAI ShowStopper Award.

CAF-316® is the only press fastener in 316 stainless steel making it even seawater resistant. The installation is like a normal press fastener, with either hand tools, pliers or (semi) automatic machines. Moreover CAF-316® is from the start available in 7 different colours and is delivered in smart, stackable packages even for do-it-yourself customers.
